NEWSLETTER

Congress Targets Foreign Affairs Spending; Exchanges Could Lose

Even before the new Congress was seated in January, budget cutting pressure had engulfed the federal government’s foreign affairs functions.

The so-called Function 150 account, which supports all foreign affairs activities including the Fulbright Program, constitutes only one percent of the overall federal budget. Over the last two years, it has been reduced by 20 percent. Yet international relations functions are in danger of undergoing another drastic funding loss for federal fiscal year (FY) 1996, which begins Oct. 1.

Budget cutting zeal, United States Information Agency reauthorization legislation, and reinventing government scenarios will all affect the health of the Fulbright Program. As this issue of the newsletter went to press, the Senate Budget Committee was debating its budget resolution for spending targets for FY 1996. As this issue of the newsletter went to press, the Senate Budget Committee was debating its budget resolution for spending targets for FY 1996. The association asked board members, chapter leaders, and others in states represented by senators on the Budget Committee to communicate their support for full funding for the Function 150 account, since a cut in the overall account would be likely to result in comparable reductions in program funds.

Association members will have another opportunity to speak out on behalf of the Fulbright Program when the House works on its budget resolution, probably in May. Appropriations bills are expected to be taken up in June and will offer another juncture at which members can support the program. The conference committee meetings later this summer, at which the House and Senate versions of appropriations bills will be reconciled, may also be critical to maintaining support for the Fulbright Program. President Clinton’s budget request for FY 1996 includes $7 million more than was appropriated in FY 1995 for the Fulbright Program. The proposed $7 million enhancement, while good

(continued on page 8)
Members Elect President, Directors

First-Term Directors

After having earned an engineering degree in food technology at the University of Vienna, Austria, Anton Amont was a Fulbright scholar in 1967 at Michigan State University where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in food science. He was a research scientist at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria (1964) and is now professor of political science at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Ms. Cigliano earned a M.B.A. degree from Simmons College Graduate School of Management in 1992. She is immediate past president of the Fulbright Association’s Massachusetts Chapter and is affiliated with Whitcomb Associates, an educational publishing firm. Ms. Cigliano serves on the association’s membership and chapter development and nominating committees. An artist and graphic designer, Lily Diaz has designed and produced a variety of marketing, promotional, and technical materials for the financial services, insurance, and computer industries. She is now multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island. In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

Maurizio A. Gianturco, a scholar and teacher of romance languages at the Sorbonne in 1975 and has been a Fulbright scholar to the University of California, Berkeley, and was a Fulbright scholar to Università di Catania (Sicily.) In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

First-Term Directors

After having earned an engineering degree in food technology at the University of Vienna, Austria, Anton Amont was a Fulbright scholar in 1967 at Michigan State University where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in food science. He was a research scientist at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria (1964) and is now professor of political science at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Ms. Cigliano earned a M.B.A. degree from Simmons College Graduate School of Management in 1992. She is immediate past president of the Fulbright Association’s Massachusetts Chapter and is affiliated with Whitcomb Associates, an educational publishing firm. Ms. Cigliano serves on the association’s membership and chapter development and nominating committees. An artist and graphic designer, Lily Diaz has designed and produced a variety of marketing, promotional, and technical materials for the financial services, insurance, and computer industries. She is now multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island. In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

Maurizio A. Gianturco, a scholar and teacher of romance languages at the Sorbonne in 1975 and has been a Fulbright scholar to the University of California, Berkeley, and was a Fulbright scholar to Università di Catania (Sicily.) In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

First-Term Directors

After having earned an engineering degree in food technology at the University of Vienna, Austria, Anton Amont was a Fulbright scholar in 1967 at Michigan State University where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in food science. He was a research scientist at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria (1964) and is now professor of political science at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Ms. Cigliano earned a M.B.A. degree from Simmons College Graduate School of Management in 1992. She is immediate past president of the Fulbright Association’s Massachusetts Chapter and is affiliated with Whitcomb Associates, an educational publishing firm. Ms. Cigliano serves on the association’s membership and chapter development and nominating committees. An artist and graphic designer, Lily Diaz has designed and produced a variety of marketing, promotional, and technical materials for the financial services, insurance, and computer industries. She is now multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island. In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

Maurizio A. Gianturco, a scholar and teacher of romance languages at the Sorbonne in 1975 and has been a Fulbright scholar to the University of California, Berkeley, and was a Fulbright scholar to Università di Catania (Sicily.) In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

First-Term Directors

After having earned an engineering degree in food technology at the University of Vienna, Austria, Anton Amont was a Fulbright scholar in 1967 at Michigan State University where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in food science. He was a research scientist at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria (1964) and is now professor of political science at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Ms. Cigliano earned a M.B.A. degree from Simmons College Graduate School of Management in 1992. She is immediate past president of the Fulbright Association’s Massachusetts Chapter and is affiliated with Whitcomb Associates, an educational publishing firm. Ms. Cigliano serves on the association’s membership and chapter development and nominating committees. An artist and graphic designer, Lily Diaz has designed and produced a variety of marketing, promotional, and technical materials for the financial services, insurance, and computer industries. She is now multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island. In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

Maurizio A. Gianturco, a scholar and teacher of romance languages at the Sorbonne in 1975 and has been a Fulbright scholar to the University of California, Berkeley, and was a Fulbright scholar to Università di Catania (Sicily.) In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

First-Term Directors

After having earned an engineering degree in food technology at the University of Vienna, Austria, Anton Amont was a Fulbright scholar in 1967 at Michigan State University where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in food science. He was a research scientist at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria (1964) and is now professor of political science at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Ms. Cigliano earned a M.B.A. degree from Simmons College Graduate School of Management in 1992. She is immediate past president of the Fulbright Association’s Massachusetts Chapter and is affiliated with Whitcomb Associates, an educational publishing firm. Ms. Cigliano serves on the association’s membership and chapter development and nominating committees. An artist and graphic designer, Lily Diaz has designed and produced a variety of marketing, promotional, and technical materials for the financial services, insurance, and computer industries. She is now multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island. In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

Maurizio A. Gianturco, a scholar and teacher of romance languages at the Sorbonne in 1975 and has been a Fulbright scholar to the University of California, Berkeley, and was a Fulbright scholar to Università di Catania (Sicily.) In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

First-Term Directors

After having earned an engineering degree in food technology at the University of Vienna, Austria, Anton Amont was a Fulbright scholar in 1967 at Michigan State University where he received his M.S. and Ph.D. degrees in food science. He was a research scientist at the International Atomic Energy Agency in Austria (1964) and is now professor of political science at Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah.

Ms. Cigliano earned a M.B.A. degree from Simmons College Graduate School of Management in 1992. She is immediate past president of the Fulbright Association’s Massachusetts Chapter and is affiliated with Whitcomb Associates, an educational publishing firm. Ms. Cigliano serves on the association’s membership and chapter development and nominating committees. An artist and graphic designer, Lily Diaz has designed and produced a variety of marketing, promotional, and technical materials for the financial services, insurance, and computer industries. She is now multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island. In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.

Maurizio A. Gianturco, a scholar and teacher of romance languages at the Sorbonne in 1975 and has been a Fulbright scholar to the University of California, Berkeley, and was a Fulbright scholar to Università di Catania (Sicily.) In 1990-91 she was a Fulbright scholar in Spain. Ms. Diaz received her B.A. degree cum laude in anthropology from Brandeis University and a Master of Fine Arts degree in computer art from the School of Visual Arts, New York City. Ms. Diaz is chairwoman of the Fulbright Association’s AIDS Task Force and serves on the 1996 conference committee.
Johnson was president and general Fulbright scholar in Venezuela in 1965-66. He is president and chief executive officer of AmeriCares Inc., a company based in Evansville, Ind. Mr. Johnson speaks Spanish fluently.

Maxine S. Thomas

Doll Pendergast, deputy director of educational and cultural affairs, United States Information Agency, presents a copy of the translated works of Senator J. William Fulbright to Egyptian Minister of Education H.E. Dr. Hussein Kamal Ba'ha El Din at the 1994 Egyptian Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade negotiator.

The government of Cameroon named Dr. Peter Agbor-Tabi minister of higher education. Dr. Agbor-Tabi, who served as a Fulbright scholar-in-residence in international economics at Spelman College in 1983-84, had been rector of the University of Yaounde I.

In 1994 the Binational Commission for Educational and Cultural Exchange between the U.S.A. and the Arab Republic of Egypt celebrated the 45th anniversary of the Fulbright Program in Egypt. The commission launched a project to translate the works of Senator J. William Fulbright into Arabic. The first volume in the planned series, containing The Arrogance of Power and The Price of Power, was translated and published by the Al Ahram Foundation. The commission announced publication of the volume at its annual alumni dinner on Nov. 3 in Cairo. Approximately 750 alumni and friends attended the gala, including a number of former U.S. ambassadors to Egypt and Egyptian ambassadors to the U.S. Commission staff also calibrated mementos received by Fulbright alumni and organized a video exhibit, "Fulbright A Retrospective 1949-1994," at the American Cultural Center in Cairo in November.

The 1994 general assembly of the Fulbright Alumni Network was held at the Drammen Museum last May when Ivar S. Spydevold was elected chairman of the association's board of directors. Also on the program was noted architect Gunnar Grønberg, who was appointed Minister of Economy of El Salvador. He had been vice-minister of economy and chief trade nego
Chapter Events and Activities

William G. Crowell (Thailand 1973), deputy chief of the United States Information Agency's Academic Exchange Programs, spoke on "The Fulbright Program and Diversity; Challenges and Opportunities" at a Dec. 12 meeting of the Greater New York Chapter. The New York City Technical College, University of New York, hosted a luncheon afterward.

The Inland Northwest Chapter's fall meeting featured the Fulbright Association videotape of Nelson Mandela receiving the 1993 Nobel Peace Prize. William Fulbright Prize for International Understanding. Members also welcomed Seiko Furushashi, a visiting Fulbright scholar from Japan who taught at Seiko Furuhashi, and Mrs. Ernest Gilmore at the Inland Northwest Chapter meeting.

Life member Mrs. Atsumi T. McCanley (Japan 1988), Mrs. Seiko Furushashi, and Mrs. Ernest Gilmore at the Inland Northwest Chapter meeting.

Furushashi, a visiting Fulbright scholar from Japan who taught at Western Montana College in Dillon last year and spent a month earlier this year at the University of North Carolina in Pembroke for international education there.

Tim Gallimore (Hungary/Poland 1994), assistant professor of journalism at the University of Missouri-Columbia and president of the Missouri Chapter, reports that the chapter holds a recognition program for winners of Fulbright grants and annually hosts a "Bon Voyage" party for departing Fulbrighters. Last year the chapter also sponsored a symposium on Rwanda.

The National Capital Area Chapter's seventh annual dinner (1994) included recognition of chapter officers and a presentation by Tore Eid on U.S. health care as compared with national health systems in Scandinavia. Dr. Eid, who is a fellow at the Department of Anatomy at the University of Bergen, Norway, was a Fulbright scholar at the Maryland Psychiatric Research Center of the University of Maryland-Baltimore.

The chapter's annual holiday party for alumni and visiting scholars was held at the International Student House in December. Guests heard soprano Nancy Scimone perform music of the season.

On Oct. 27 the North Carolina Chapter was founded with the assistance of the Office of International Programs at the University of North Carolina at Wilmington (UNCW). The chapter will include Fulbrighters from all 11 campuses in the University of North Carolina system and from private institutions such as Duke University and Davidson College.

Robert Y. George (India 1984, 1988), professor of biological sciences, UNCW, was elected president; Earl McCormac (India 1988), consulting professor of radiology, Duke University, Medical Center, vice president; and William Wadman (Chile 1989), associate professor of economics and finance, UNCW, secretary/treasurer.

Elected to the chapter board were Parz Bartolome (USA 1963), professor of education, UNCW; Jothi Kumar (India 1991), associate professor of chemistry, North Carolina Agricultural and Technical State University; and Gary Faulkner (Germany 1989), director of international programs, UNCW.

Alumni and visiting Fulbright scholars attended a reception on Oct. 20 hosted by the Northeast Ohio Chapter before the lecture "American Studies through European Eyes: Fulbright Fellowship and Cross-Cultural Understanding" by John Carroll University professors David Klooster (Slovakia 1992) and Russell Durham (Norway 1993). The lecture was part of the university's series "Reflections of Our Multicultural World."

Robert Washburn during his presentation "A Fulbrighter in Cairo."

At the Northern New York Chapter's fall event on Oct. 27, composer Robert Washburn presented a program about his Fulbright experience in Egypt in 1986. Prof. Washburn played recordings of his compositions "Impressions of Cairo" and "Temple of the Nile" and discussed slides of the settings that inspired the music. On exhibit were non-Western musical instruments from Prof. Washburn's collection.

With the State University of New York College at Potsdam, the chapter co-sponsored a reception on Nov. 4 for David Eisenhower who had lectured on campus about World War II.

Twenty Fulbrighters gathered for dinner and a reception at the University of Tennessee Faculty Club in Knoxville on Oct. 17 to mark the founding of the Tennessee Chapter. William H. Shurr (Greece 1991), professor of English, The University of Tennessee, Knoxville (UTK), spoke about his experience as a Fulbright senior scholar.

At the business meeting, Dr. Shurr was elected president and James N. Gehlhar (Germany 1985), Japan/South Korea 1994, secretary/treasurer. Dr. Gehlhar is director of UTK's Center for International Education.

Elected to the chapter board were Howard Brahmstedt (China 1992, 1993, 1994), professor of music, Tennessee Technological University, Cookeville; David A. Johnson (USIS 1978), India 1983, 1986, Thailand 1989), professor of planning, UTK, and a past president of the Fulbright Association; Victoria McCord (Cyprus 1992, teacher, John Overton High School, Nashville; Michael Pabst (Netherlands 1984), professor, Dental Research Center, University of Tennessee, Memphis; C. Daniel Robbins (Norway 1966), director, analytical services, Martin Marietta Energy Systems, Inc., Oak Ridge; and Gretta C. Stanger (Wales 1989), Director, Women's Center, Tennessee Tech.

The Fulbrighters' Newsletter was founded in 1985, 1986; the Philadelphia/Delaware Valley Chapter attended a Delaware Symphony Chamber Orchestra performance conducted by Stephen Guzenhauser (Germany 1965), Delaware Symphony Orchestra music director. The evening included a private reception for chapter participants and an opportunity to meet with Dr. Guzenhauser and soloist Julie Nishimura.

To celebrate the holiday season, the chapter organized a day trip on Dec. 4 to Bethlehem, Pa., where the Lehigh University choral gave a Christmas concert in the historic church. Participants then took a walking tour of Bethlehem's historic district to view the season's decorations. Visiting Fulbrighters from Bulgaria, Greece, India, and Japan joined alumni for the program.

Chapter Moderator/Secretary Tom Speelhoffer (Germany 1988) initiated informal gatherings for Fulbrighters in the Norristown, Pa., area. The "29th Club," named for the date on which members get together, met twice last fall.

Left row, top to bottom: Victoria McCord, Gretta Stanger, William Shurr, James N. Gehlhar; right row, top to bottom: C. Daniel Robbins, Michael Pabst, Howard Brahmstedt, and David Johnson.

The Western New York Chapter and the State University of New York College at Fredonia's Office of International Education co-sponsored a reception for international students and Fulbright scholars on Dec. 2.

Fulbrighters join Western New York Chapter Treasurer Martin Schagrin (Chile 1988), back row, left; Barbara Pabst, Howard Brahmstedt, and David Johnson.

With the leadership of President Margaret Woodward Oststrom (France 1955, 1956), the Philadelphia/Delaware Valley Chapter conducted a membership campaign last fall. Approximately 35 chapter volunteers called and wrote to more than 700 alumni in their area who were not association members. Director of Member and Chapter Services Lisa Chapin assisted Ms. Oststrom with developing and distributing campaign materials. As of Dec. 31, 45 alumni had joined, increasing the number of members in the chapter area to 190, a 33 percent gain from the 1993 total of 145. Congratulations to Marge Oststrom and the other chapter volunteers who helped achieve this significant increase in membership! Chapter leaders interested in starting drives should contact Lisa Chapin at the national office.

The Fulbrighters' Newsletter
Aperture Giving Sets Record

Members and the matching gift programs they have sponsored over the last several years. The association’s annual giving program was instituted in 1991. The record total results from an increased number of major gifts, some of which were matched by corporate giving programs, according to Executive Director Jane L. Anderson. To date, a total of 251 members have given to the appeal. The average 1994 appeal gift, including corporate matching contributions, was $150. For the 1993 appeal, the average donation amount was $63. In 1991, the appeal’s first year, the average gift was $44.

"Annual appeal funds support work with local chapters, with full-fledged associations abroad, and with association task forces. As part of the association’s regular program of operations, and thus less likely to attract foundation or corporate grants, these efforts would suffer without the funding received through annual giving," Ms. Anderson said.

Such a reorganization was considered but rejected earlier by the National Performance Review (NPR), the administration’s "reinventing government" process. That initiative is now examining federal exchange programs to identify any areas of duplication and to recommend ways to eliminate them.

The association will ask members to stay involved in shaping the future of the Fulbright Program. To that end, please drop us a note with the name of your representative and tell us your FAM number, and in anticipation of joining the electronic network, your E-mail address.

Please Remember the Fulbright Association in Your Will

Bequests to the Fulbright Association are fully deductible for federal estate tax purposes. A simple form of bequest which you may include in your will is: I give $______ dollars to The Fulbright Association, Inc. of Washington, D.C. to be used for its general purposes.

The Fulbright Association will be happy to assist you and your attorney in structuring bequests to the association.

Thank You to Appeal Donors!

The Fulbright Association gratefully acknowledges on the following page donors to its 1994 annual appeal. The names listed for the 1994 appeal are current through April 15, 1995. Donors making gifts after that date will be acknowledged in the next issue of the newsletter.

Frederick G. Acker
Arline Aleda
Darrell R. Amsden
Sr. Nona Mary Allard
Charles W. Allen
Arlette Amberg
Dorothy A. Anderson
Jon W. Anderson
Stewart Anderson
John F. Asbury
Harold H. Baumgartel
R. Michelle Beale
William Chase Benjamin
Alice B. Bishop
Marlene Oscar Berman
Ron Byrd
Charles K. Birdsall
Elizabeth S. Blake
Philip Blunt
Clark M. Blatteis
Ellrieford Fornoff Boilesta
Laura L. Bolten
Elaine E. Boney
Spencer R. Bowers
Werner W. Brundt
Richard L. Breyer
Ronald M. Bright
Lars Brink
Donald R. Brodnio
Donald R. Brown
David R. Burge
Mary Ann Cahill
John J. Cardwell and Ruth Campbell
Charles Cantu
Owen O. Carey
Frederick F. Carrier
Dino J. Caterini
Jon D. Cignetti
John C. and Ruth Campbell
CITYBAN Matching Gifts Program
Robert C. Ferguson
Dennis Ferguson-Acosta
Curtis R. Finch
Arline M. Fisch
Fulton J. Fisher
Loretta M. Fisher
Robert H. Foote
Jone M. Forsyth
Andrew Foster Frester
Jeryl H. Frank
Irving H. Frishman
Talitha M. Gardali
George Curtiss Garbesi
Thomas G. Gardner
Philip O. Gerat
Laurence C. Gerkens
Maurizio A. Gauntomo
Linda M. Gilbert
Charles A. Globock
Robert D. Gomulski
Mary G. Greer
Joel C. Eberlin
R. Byron Bird
Charles R. Miller
Irene H. Frieze
Howard J. Baumgartel
Marilyn T. Gaddis
Irene L. Frieze
Cheryl J. Frank
Arthur Rowe Foster
Mary Hadowan
Emily A. Haddad
Wayne R. Hager
Nell D. Hoggerston
Joan F. Hall
Leonard C. Harber
Carolyn Harris
Maurice Hankel Heins
Charles E. Hemleby
Loren W. Hershey
Erol Gaston Hill
Charles C. Hills
William B. Hoffmann
Joan Hoffmann
Bernard Howland
Ross C. Horning
William J. Hougen
Robert D. Gomulski
Mary G. Greer
Irene L. Frieze
Cheryl J. Frank
Arthur Rowe Foster
Mary Hadowan
Emily A. Haddad
Wayne R. Hager
Nell D. Hoggerston
Joan F. Hall
Leonard C. Harber
Carolyn Harris
Maurice Hankel Heins
Charles E. Hemleby
Loren W. Hershey
Erol Gaston Hill
Charles C. Hills
William B. Hoffmann
Joan Hoffmann
Bernard Howland
Ross C. Horning
William J. Hougen
Recent Fulbright Alumni Achievements

Books & Publications

New member Patricia Ann Brock (Kyrgyzstan 1993) has written Educational Technology in the Classroom (Educational Technology Publications, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, N.J.) Ms. Brock, an education consultant with Integrated Professional Services, also teaches at Ramstein Valley (N.J.) Community College. She is now writing an English textbook for the Kyrgyz-American School and a travel memoir of her Fulbright experience.

The New York Times published a feature article last year on Game in the Global Village: A 50-Nation Study of Entertainment Televison by Anne Cooper Chen (Japan 1992), who reports that the section on Japanese game shows in her Popular Press book resulted from research completed on her Fulbright grant.

Dr. Chen is professor of journalism and Mass Media at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

Research conducted by Mindle Lazarus-Black during a Fulbright grant to Antigua and Barbuda. West Indies, in 1985-86 resulted in her book Legitimate Arts and Illegal Encounters: Local Society in Antigua and Barbuda (Smithsonian Institution Press.) She also edited with Susan F. Hirsch the collection Contested States: Law, Hegemony and Resistance (Routledge).

A life member of the Fulbright Association, Ms. Lazarus-Black is assistant professor at the University of Illinois at Chicago.

The University of California Press published*Joyce in America: Cultural Politics and the Trials of Ulysses* by Jeffrey Segall (Czech Republic 1991-1993). A new member of the Fulbright Association, Dr. Segall has completed a Mellon Research Fellowship at the Ransom Humanities Center at the University of Texas at Austin and now lectures at Kent State University.

Amanda Barrow (India 1992) recently exhibited tapestries and constructions in her show "Wall and Floor" at the Elizabeth Holmen Gallery at Warren Wilson College in Asheville, N.C. Ms. Barrow utilizes printmaking and textile techniques. Her work is in the collections of the Museum of Modern Art, the New York and Boston Public Libraries, and the Goethe Institute.

Exhibits & Performances

Daniel Asia (Germany 1980, England 1987) received a grant from the Meet the Composer/Reader's Digest Commission to write a concerto for pianist André-Michel Schuël, who will perform the concerto with several orchestras throughout the United States during the 1993-95 season. The Phoenix Symphony Orchestra premiered Mr. Asia's Genesis, a fanfare written in honor of the orchestra's 100th anniversary last year. In 1993 the Phoenix Symphony Orchestra gave the first performance of Mr. Asia's Symphony No. 4. Mr. Asia heads the composition department at the University of Arizona, Tucson. Koch International will release CDs of his compositions for piano and voice as well as his first and third symphonies. New World Records and Albany Records released CDs of his second and third symphonies performed by the Phoenix Symphony.

Fit, Failure, and the Hall of Fame: How Companies Succeed or Fail by Raymond E. Miles and Charles C. Snow (France 1984) was published by The Free Press. Professor Snow, a life member of the Fulbright Association, teaches at Pennsylvania State University.

The fourth edition of Maternal and Child Health Practices by Helen M. Wallace, M.D., (Czech Republic 1993), R.P. Nelson, and P.J. Sweeney has been published by Third Party Publishing Company, Oakland, Calif. Dr. Wallace is a member of the Fulbright Association life member and child health at San Diego State University.

"Monsoon" by Amanda Barrow, 1992, cotton, 18x42."

Paintings and sculpture by Hilda Green Densmky (Netherlands 1992) exhibited last fall at the Rye (N.Y.) Arts Center in the show "Sound Effects" portrayed the artist's response to the pollution of Long Island Sound.

School of Fisch," the exhibition held last fall at the Nordlyands Kunstmuseum, Aalborg, Denmark, featured the jewelry of Arline M. Fisch (Denmark 1956, 1966; Austria 1982; Uruguay 1989) and 14 of her former students whose work relates to textile techniques of metalworking and to the jewelry and metal-smithing program at San Diego State University, where Prof. Fisch teaches. The museum toured the exhibition in Scandinavia and published a catalog with support from the U.S. Information Service in Copenhagen and from several Danish foundations. Danish goldsmith Hanne Belmans, who studied with Prof. Fisch, conceived of the exhibition as a way to highlight the value of international educational exchange. Prof. Fisch, a Fulbright Association life member, acted as curator, selecting the artists who participated and writing the catalog.

"Nierica," 60 diameter yarn painting by Robert Forman based on his Fulbright experience in Mexico.

"Yarn Paintings" by Robert Forman (Mexico 1992) will be on view at the Schenectady (N.Y.) Museum until May 28. Ms. Forman began making yarn paintings in 1989.
later and learned that the Huichol Indians of Mexico practice the same technique. An exhibition of his yarn and textile works at the Huichol artists is being organized for display in the U.S. and in Mexico.

The Ipiranga Gallery of Los Angeles showed "Chronologies: 1969-1993," an exhibition of photographic constructions by Maria Martinez-Cañas (Spain 1985). Last year she was also selected for a Metro-Dade Art in Public Places Commission for the Miami International Airport.

Concert pianist Frederick Marvin (Spain 1960), whose principal research has been on the 18th century Spanish composer Padre Antonio Soler, toured South America giving concerts in Madrid, Cadiz, Leon, Alcoy, and Barcelona. Mr. Marvin edited 18 Soler sonatas which were published by Henle Editions, Munich. He recently recorded CDs of the major sonatas of another 18th century composer, Jan Ladislav Dussek, on Dorian Records.

Research has been on the 18th century composer, Jan Ladislav Dussek, on Dorian Records.

Honduras 1994) were exhibited last year. She also won The Harriet Foundation's "Outstanding Professional Development By A Tenued Faculty Member" award from the New Jersey Institute of Technology where he is professor of chemical engineering.

Installation paintings by William Swetschnik (Spain 1987, 1988, Honduras 1990) whose principal research has been on the 18th century Spanish composer Padre Antonio Soler, toured South America giving concerts in Madrid, Cadiz, Leon, Alcoy, and Barcelona. Mr. Marvin edited 18 Soler sonatas which were published by Henle Editions, Munich. He recently recorded CDs of the major sonatas of another 18th century composer, Jan Ladislav Dussek, on Dorian Records. Universal Editions, Vienna, Austria, has published two of the Dussek sonatas.

Field member Anne O. Freed (Bulgaria 1989, 1993) was inducted as a fellow of the Massachusetts Academy of Clinical Social Work last year. She also won The Harriet Foundation's "Outstanding Professional Development By A Tenued Faculty Member" award from the New Jersey Institute of Technology where he is professor of chemical engineering.

Helsinki University of Technology awarded John Klus (Finland 1966, 1985) an honorary doctoral degree for his pioneering efforts in continuing education, technology transfer, and new product development. Dr. Klus is professor at the Engineering Professional Development Unit of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and president of the International Association for Continuing Education, which he helped establish in Finland.

Helsinki University of Technology awarded John Klus (Finland 1966, 1985) an honorary doctoral degree for his pioneering efforts in continuing education, technology transfer, and new product development. Dr. Klus is professor at the Engineering Professional Development Unit of the University of Wisconsin-Madison and president of the International Association for Continuing Education, which he helped establish in Finland.

The University of the World gave the 1994 Lorderry Award for Excellence in Distance Education to Takeshi Utsumi (USA 1954-56). He spoke on the "Philosophy and Realization of a Global Electronic University System" at the awards banquet.

Job Changes

Appointed last summer as the Smithsonian Institution's first counselor for Latino affairs, Miguel A. Brevos (Mexico 1985, 1989) is helping the institution better understand the contributions of Hispanics to U.S. history and culture. His broad mandate covers hiring standards, curricular practices, and exhibits for the Smithsonian's 16 museums and the National Zoo. Dr. Brevos has been a distinguished professor at William Paterson College in Wayne, N.J.

Timothy A. Corba (Germany 1969) was named U.S. ambassador to Singapore last year. Ambassador Corba, a life member of the Fulbright Association, had been an attorney with the Washington, D.C., law firm Patton, Boggs and Blow since 1977.

Fulbright Association life member Everett E. Dahl (Malaysia 1990) has accepted a position as assistant professor in the justice systems department of Northeast Missouri State University.

At the Eighth Annual National Conference of the Honor Society for International Scholars (Phi Beta Delta), Ana Gil Sefaria (USA 1988) presented the paper "International Internships in Educational Leadership: What Can Be Done to Improve the Experience?" based on research she had conducted with Eugene Thompson, associate professor, Western Michigan University. Their collaborative effort was the first step in establishing an academic linkage between Universidad Pedagógica Experimental Libertador in Caracas, where Dr. Gil coordinates the doctoral studies program, and Western Michigan University.

Colette Mazzucelli (France 1991) spoke on "Maastricht and the Younger Europeans: Signs of Generational Change" to members of the Jean Monnet Council at The George Washington University.

Lectures & Workshops

Lily Diaz (Spain 1991) presented the paper "Hypertext Technology and Historical Inquiry" at the V International Symposium on Electronic Art in Helsinki last summer. She also participated in the International Society on Electronic Art's "East Meets West" exchange held at the Theater Society in Saint Petersburg, Russia. Ms. Diaz, multimedia specialist at the College of Staten Island, exhibited an interactive, computer-driven multimedia piece "Art and Science" as part of the display "Money Changes Everything" at the 41st Arts Festival of Atlanta. She is a director and life member of the Fulbright Association and chairs the association's AIDS Task Force.

In Search of . . .

Find them in the NFSA Membership Directory, which contains 10,000 listings of individuals and institutions active in all facets of international educational exchange, as well as vital information about NFSA: Association of International Educators, the world's largest membership organization for professionals in the field.

196 pages. $50. Item 1150.
To order call 1.800.636.4994 or fax 412.741.0609.

Available Now!

... Your Colleagues in International Education?

The Fulbrighters' Newsletter
AIDS Task Force

By Lily Diaz, Chairwoman

The AIDS Task Force panel discussion at the 17th annual conference concerned ways to support the objectives of educating members about AIDS and of making use of Fulbright resources to help fight the disease.

Panel members Victor Ayala, director of special programs, the Fulbright Commission, Colombia; and Ellen Berelson, deputy chief, Africa Branch, the United States Information Agency's Office of Academic and Cultural Programs, presented a list of projects related to the epidemic from global and local perspectives and reviewed its impact on the Fulbright Program.

Dr. Ayala discussed AIDS as it affects the poor and ethnic minority groups in U.S. urban centers. Ms. Gartner described sex education and its relationship to urban centers. Ms. Berelson presented a list of projects supported by the Fulbright Program to fight the disease.

To stimulate local programs, association chapters will be asked to appoint a liaison to the task force. The creation of a database containing information about AIDS-related projects funded through the Fulbright Program was also proposed. The database could eventually be used to create a speaking bureau of Fulbright alumni from various disciplines.

Seek Retired Fulbrighters for Database Listing

By Thomas J. Keil, Chairman

The Council on International Educational Exchange and UNESCO's Division of Higher Education have announced the pilot phase of the International Network for University Volunteers project. A global information network on faculty members seeking to volunteer services and on higher education institutions seeking such expertise, the project initially will develop databases on faculty from North America and on teaching opportunities in Southeast Asia.

After evaluation of the project, the databases will be expanded to include faculty and teaching openings throughout the world. The International Network for University Volunteers is designed to maintain current information on those wishing to volunteer and on available openings. The actual matching and logistics will be handled by the individual professor seeking a posting and by the staff of the host institution.

To request a volunteer listing form or for more information, contact ATTN: INIVCFE, 505 E. 42nd St., New York, NY 10017, USA; (212) 663-1414; tel.; (212) 663-1875; fax; INIVCFE@Email.ORG.

Task Force on Eastern and Central Europe and the former Soviet Union

By Thomas J. Keil, Chairman

The task force established a computized bulletin board to enable members to exchange information systematically. Several members have made contacts in Eastern Europe through the bulletin board, thus facilitating dissemination of projects and events in various projects. Anyone interested in subscribing to the bulletin can send an E-mail note to me at TKA:EIIU@UKYVM.LOUISVILLE.EDU.

The task force session at the 17th annual conference covered a broad range of topics reflecting the diverse interests of the panelists. Natasha Freed (Bulgaria 1989, 1993), Roy Freed (Bulgaria 1989) discussed their ongoing projects in Bulgaria. Bruce Douglas (Japan 1959, 1960) talked about his activities through the Chicago Joint Committee on Humanitarian Aid for Russia. Takeshi Utsumi (USA 1954-56) discussed distance-learning technologies that can be used to develop programs in Eastern Europe.

A second task force initiative, the volunteer database, will provide a forum for Fulbrighters in the area to increase their involvement with educational and cultural exchanges. This project will also help to further exchange of information between Fulbright artists in the United States and those in other countries to provide a base of support for Fulbright artists and programs.

A second task force initiative, the development of a computerized list of funding sources, is underway. To this end, the minority group's work will be placed in the database and will be made accessible to all subscribers. Task force members are also exploring local distance-learning projects directed towards Eastern and Central Euro.
Global Network
(continued from page 5)

spoke about the new pavilion he designed for the museum and about traditional Norwegian log houses.

Richard Gardner, U.S. ambassador to Spain, Cristina Barrios (standing), chief of protocol, Spanish Ministry of Foreign Affairs, and Minister of Foreign Affairs Javier Solana, watch Harriet Mayor Fulbright examine the Gran Cruz de la Orden de Merito Civil. Spain's King Juan Carlos I decorated Senator Fulbright with the Gran Cruz de la Orden de Merito Civil. The award, the highest granted to Spanish citizens, is given to non-Spaniards only in exceptional circumstances. At a ceremony presided over by Minister of Foreign Affairs Javier Solana (University of Virginia 1966-67), Harriet Mayor Fulbright received the decoration on her husband's behalf. U.S. Ambassador Richard Gardner hosted a reception in honor of Senator and Mrs. Fulbright, where she greeted Fulbright alumni and staff members of the Commission for Educational Exchange Between the United States of America and Spain, which had been instrumental in arranging the award.

The government of Uganda has made Fulbright alumnus Paul Kawanga Ssemogerere second deputy prime minister and minister for public service. A member of the first group of Vietnamese Fulbright grantees has been appointed director of the Association of Southeast Asian Nations (ASEAN) Department of Vietnam's Ministry of Foreign Affairs. Nguyen Trung Thanh was a Fulbrighter in 1992-93 at the Fletcher School of Law and Diplomacy, Tufts University, Medford, Mass.

Vojin Sulovic, president of the Fulbright Alumni Association of Yugoslavia, has announced an art exchange initiative. The Yugoslav association would like to exchange its exhibition "Continuum," which was shown in Belgrade in July 1993, for exhibitions of works by Fulbright artists from other countries. In addition to mounting the exhibitions, the association would host companion "literary evenings." Exhibitions traveling to Yugoslavia should be composed of works on paper, including graphics, lithographs, drawings, prints, or silkscreens, to minimize shipping costs. The association is exploring arrangements with a gallery to print a modest catalog for the Fulbright exhibit hosted in Yugoslavia. The Continuum exhibition catalog states, "The Fulbright Alumni Association of Yugoslavia is a continuum of the spirit of the Fulbright Program of cooperation and international understanding. Continuing the tradition of this prestigious Program [by] applying the same strict principles of excellence, the Association endeavors to fill the gap created by its temporary cancellation, by organizing activities in education, science, culture and art."

For information contact Dr. Vojin Sulovic, President, Fulbright Alumni Association of Yugoslavia, Palmotica 22/1, 11000 Belgrade, Yugoslavia. 381-11-334-524, tel.; 381-11-344-513, fax.

NON PROFIT ORG.
U.S. POSTAGE
PAID
Washington, D.C.
Permit No. 2204