Association Creates Fulbright Prize

The Fulbright Association announced on May 5 the establishment of the J. William Fulbright Prize for International Understanding. The prize, a $50,000 cash award made possible through a grant by The Coca-Cola Foundation, will recognize and reward individuals who have made extraordinary contributions to increasing international understanding and cooperation.

The prize will be conferred on Oct. 1 in Washington, D.C., at the association's 16th conference. The laureate will give the keynote address.

The J. William Fulbright Prize for International Understanding honors the largest, most important educational exchange program in history and the career and spirit of its founder, Senator J. William Fulbright. It is intended for internationally known persons who have made universal, enduring, and significant contributions to breaking through barriers which divide humankind.

Nominees may be from any country and need not be Fulbright program alumni. Their achievements may be specific in time or may reflect a long period of work.

Individuals or groups of individuals working in identical or closely related fields are eligible. Institutions or organizations may not be nominated.

Nominees must be able to attend the award ceremony and to give an address. The prize laureate may also be asked to lecture at association chapters in the U.S., overseas associations, or other institutions.

An international committee whose composition will be kept confidential until the prize is awarded will select the laureate. Committee deliberations are to be confidential to ensure the integrity of the selection process. The prize will be awarded in a nondiscriminatory manner.

Senator J. William Fulbright Awarded Presidential Medal of Freedom

President Clinton awarded the first Presidential Medal of Freedom of his administration to Senator J. William Fulbright on May 5 at a tribute held for Fulbright by the Fulbright Association.

The Presidential Medal of Freedom, the U.S. government's highest civilian award, honors persons who have made especially meritorious contributions to national security or national interests, to world peace, or to other significant public or private endeavors.

Accepting the award Senator Fulbright said he was proud to have his "old student" with him. Before presenting the medal, that student — President Clinton — gave a warm and moving tribute to his mentor, recounting humorous stories from the 1968 campaign trail when he worked to re-elect Senator Fulbright. But he also told how Senator Fulbright's intelligence and integrity inspired him and many others of his generation.

"It's important not to forget that the American political system pre-

(continued on page 3, col. 1)
Tributes to Senator Fulbright

These tributes to Senator Fulbright were given at the Fulbright Association’s dinner in his honor on May 5. Roger Rosenblatt (Ireland 1962) served as master of ceremonies. Anna Moffo (Italy) performed a vocal tribute.

A Man of Honor

By Ambassador Pamela C. Harriman

I am honored to be here and to join in celebrating one of the truly most honorable senators ever to serve this nation.

I first met Bill Fulbright when he was newly elected. It was during World War II. He came to lunch in London with the prime minister — and I will never forget how this young American accomplished the most extraordinary thing. As the conversation progressed, Winston Churchill fell silent and stared with great attention to Bill Fulbright, whose view was sweeping and whose wisdom was impressive even then.

I first met Bill Fulbright when he was first Americans to try to get us to think about the people in Russia as people; he was among the first Americans to try to get us to see people in the Islamic world as people; among the first Americans to try to get us to understand the different and various rich cultures of Asia, which have now produced some of the most amazing achievements in all of human history," President Clinton said.

The president commended Japan’s support for the Fulbright program and recognized Japanese Ambassador Takakazu Kuriyama, who was in the audience.

At an Arkansas celebration for Senator Fulbright several years ago, the president said he came upon Senator Fulbright watching a football game on television. Watching a player kick a field goal, Senator Fulbright commented to then-Governor Clinton that he could not believe that it had been 64 years since he had played football.

President Clinton said he mentioned the incident because it reminded him of an important truth. (continued on page 11, col. 1)

A Man of Service

By Senator Albert Gore, Sr.

It was easy to see that he was bright and brash and, as I soon learned, full of lofty ideas. In fact, though we were in the midst of World War II, he began to make speeches about world peace. He even dared to introduce a resolution to commit the U.S. House of Representatives to support the United Nations, and it passed bringing him a measure of instant fame, some measure of which every congressman, young or old, covets.

Well, it was plain to me that if (continued on page 16, col. 1)

Mrs. Fulbright and President Clinton toasting Senator Fulbright.

A Man of Courage

By Harriet Mayor Fulbright

My husband is a lucky man, just as he always claims. He is also a modest man, modest to the point that he does not lay claim to the accomplishments that are really his. According to him, it was just luck that his English professor stopped him one afternoon in the ball and suggested that he apply for the Rhodes scholarship. Just lucky? I don’t think so. I think that what the English professor saw in his student was intelligence.

And 15 years later I don’t think the University of Arkansas board looked at their young law professor Fulbright and said, “Now there’s a lucky fellow. Let’s name him the country’s youngest university president.” No, what I think they saw was a man with leadership.

The citizens of Arkansas elected him soon after because he was a leader and soon realized that he was also a man of vision. That vision — that a well run democracy requires an educated, thoughtful, and committed public and that in this atomic age we cannot survive on this planet without international communication — catapulted him into the public eye and guided him throughout his public life.

But the Fulbright vision would have faded into a pale shadow, perhaps disappeared as a wisp of smoke, if it had not been for another critical characteristic — one that our President and First Lady have — and that is courage.

Hard as it may be to believe now, it took courage to persist in support of a program which exposed our youth to “dangerous” foreign ideas. It took great courage to cast the only vote against Joe McCarthy’s Un-American Activities Committee appropriations. And it took the most courage of all to stand up to a powerful president on his policies in Vietnam.

And so I want to propose a toast to my wonderful husband for his intelligence, his leadership, his vision and courage, and his unbounded humanity.

A President Clinton, wearing a Fulbright campaign button, pays tribute to his mentor.

Salute to Senator Fulbright

Senator Bill Fulbright, and to celebrate the life and service of Senator William Fulbright, and to pay enduring tribute to his love of his country and his devotion to its constitution and its principles of freedom and equal justice for all.

As a neighbor and friend it is a pleasure for me to confess having had a measure of amazement as well as inspiration by the depth and scope of his vision and learning, and for his rapid rise to fame and power.

We were from neighboring states and in a similar age group, and I think it fair to say equally filled with brash and ambition.

Well, as fortune would have it, I was elected to Congress four years before he arrived. It was a pleasure to welcome this neighboring congressman and to offer my cooperation.

President Clinton’s words echoed among the gardens in the town’s favorite son. The monument, which stands a bust inscribed to the town’s favorite son, is now the centerpiece of a flower garden in the town’s favorite son.

The president also praised the senator’s dedication to his role as a mentor. Fulbright also deeply believed that the country’s youngest university president, Fulbright, and said: "It is impossible for me to fully capture for you the impact that he had on young generation after young generation in my State, how he made us believe that education could lift us up and lift this country up, how he taught us that the maximum of our ability and then to understand the different and various rich cultures of Asia, which have now produced some of the most amazing achievements in all of human history," President Clinton said.

The president commended Japan’s support for the Fulbright program and recognized Japanese Ambassador Takakazu Kuriyama, who was in the audience.

At an Arkansas celebration for Senator Fulbright several years ago, the president said he came upon Senator Fulbright watching a football game on television. Watching a player kick a field goal, Senator Fulbright commented to then-Governor Clinton that he could not believe that it had been 64 years since he had played football.

President Clinton said he mentioned the incident because it reminded him of an important truth. (continued on page 11, col. 1)
Chapter News

On May 1 Georgia Congressman John Lewis spoke on "Lessons of the U.S. Civil Rights Movement: Relevant for Today's Ethnic Conflicts?" at a program organized by the Atlanta chapter for visiting Fulbrighters and alumni. Congressman Lewis represents Georgia's Fifth District in the U.S. House of Representatives. A colleague of Dr. Martin Luther King, Rep. Lewis was among leaders of historic civil rights marches in Selma, Ala., and Washington, D.C. The chapter event included a reception and guided tours of Dr. King's birthplace, now a national historic landmark, and the King Center for Non-Violent Change, the meeting site. Visiting scholars and alumni also joined alumni May 2 at a performance of "Bessy Smith Blues" by Bernadine Mitchell. The weekend program was an enrichment activity developed by the Atlanta chapter under a Fulbright Enrichment Incentive grant from the United States Information Agency.

The Chicago chapter participated in an International Education seminar on aspects of urban life conducted for Fulbright graduate students in the Midwest and the South. Area alumni maintain an ongoing program of hospitality and assistance for visiting Fulbrighters. In cooperation with the John Niveau Center for International Affairs at the University of Illinois, Chicago, the chapter co-sponsored a seminar on political and urban life, followed by a reception and discussion.

As part of its project on "Welcoming Visiting Fulbrighters to Connecticut," developed with Fulbright grants and matching funds from the United States Information Agency, the Connecticut chapter hosted visiting Fulbrighters for a photographic and musical celebration of American Jazz at Fairfield University. Fulbrighters were treated to a dinner and gallery opening of "The Golden Age of Jazz: Photographs Portraits by William Gottlieb." The event included a concert by the Young Giants of Jazz — Joe Lovano (saxophone), Mulgrew Miller (piano), Bill Smith (trumpet, and Brian Torff (bass).

The Board of Directors of the Massachusetts chapter met on May 25 to discuss programs for 1993-94. Plans call for a program to be held in the Greater Boston area in October. Vincent Fascouci has joined the chapter board as meeting chair and will work on recruiting additional association members in Massachusetts. The chapter is also exploring a book program to collect books in specific subject areas, such as social work, psychology, and computer science, for shipment to Eastern European countries.

Prof. Yoshiharu Matsuura (Yale University 1975) spoke on "Legal Cultures in the Nineties: An Observation of a Japanese Academic and American Legal Culture" at the annual Spring meeting of the Minnesota Chapter. Prof. Matsuura, who teaches law at Chuo University, is a Fulbright lecturer at the East Asian Studies Center of the University of Wisconsin's School of Law. His wife, Prof. Isuiko Matsuura, also teaches law at the University of Wisconsin.

Alfred Rosa (Italy 1973) has been elected president/secretary of the Vermont Chapter. John M. R. will serve as vice president/treasurer. Serving as directors are A. William Biddle (Indonesia 1992), John Izzl (Australia 1990), Julian Jaffe (United Kingdom 1950), Sydney Lea (Hungary 1992), Charles Letteri (Finland 1985), Ronald Savitt (Israel 1989), Immo Stabreit, the ambassador of Germany to the United States, is president. Members of his cabinet include the Federal Republic of Germany to the United States of America. Dr. H. and Mrs. Stabreit hosted a buffet dinner at the German Embassy House.

The United States Educational Foundation in India's 1991-92 annual report includes an appreciation of the Indian Fulbright Alumni Association, which has chapters in Ahmedabad, Amritsar, Bangalore, Cuttack, Delhi, Lucknow, Madras, Pune, and Rajkot. The report also contains information on the programs of nearly 50 notable U.S. and Indian alumni.

Fulbrighter Janet A. F. (Spain 1966) has been named minister without portfolio of the Ministry of National Defense. She will serve as minister to the U.S. from Spain. The event was organized by the Commission for Educational Exchange between the United States of America and Spain.

Overseas

Fulbright News

Fernando Henrique Cardoso, a distinguished Fulbright fellow in 1986, has been named foreign minister of Brazil.

Members of the Fulbright Association of Costa Rica elected new officers and directors for the upcoming year. They are Jose Brenes, president; Beata Saborio, vice president; Evelyn Aguilar, secretary; Jeanina Ormonte, treasurer; Ana Cecilia Torres, member-at-large; and Adolfo Somarriba, general treasurer.

The Commission for Educational Exchange between the United States and Spain's American Fulbright Alumni has issued a publication commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Fulbright program in Cyprus. The book features a page-length section of color photographs on Fulbright events and chronicles the biographies of U.S. and Cypriot grantees from 1962 to 1992. One of the Cypriot grantees is Foreign Minister Alecos Nicolaides, who received his B.S. and M.S. degrees in industrial management from the University of Wisconsin. The book was published under a Fulbright grant.

The Fulbright Alumni Association - Panama inducted its 1993 board of directors at a dinner meeting featuring as speaker Panama's Supreme Magistrate Aura Emerita Guerra de Villalaz. In her remarks, she praised the Fulbright program not only for its contributions to higher learning but also for its role in building democracy in Panama.

Fulbright lecturer Gerald Brown, from Panama from July 1992 to March 1993, organized and conducted a band concert by leading musicians from Panama's National Symphony Band. The concert was supported by the Organization of American States, the University of Panama, and the National Symphonic Band. The "National Selection of Symphonic Bands" concert at the National Cathedral in Panama City attracted an audience of 500.

President Bill Clinton directed the National Symphony Youth Program at the Inter-American Center for International Studies in San Jose, Costa Rica. On his Fulbright grant he worked to rebuild Panama's National Symphony Orchestra and Band.

Columbia University Professor Edward Malefakis (Spain 1960-62) spoke on "The Fulbright Program in Spain: First Third of a Century" on May 21 in Madrid at a celebration of the program's 50th anniversary in Spain. The event was organized by the Commission for Educational Exchange between the United States and Spain.

Taiwanese Premier Chin Lien has appointed four Fulbright alumni as members of his cabinet. Chen-kuo Lin, who received a Fulbright grant as a student of international finance, Shirley W.Y. Kuo, a Fulbright researcher in 1971-72, was named minister without portfolio, Executive Yuan. Chen Sun, a Fulbright student grantee in 1965-66, was appointed minister of national defense, No. 1 Tongshan Road, 6th floor, Executive Yuan. Shih Hsin University, director of the Ministry of Education, Executive Yuan, is Celia H.S. Hsu, who received a Fulbright research grant in 1977-78.

Fulbrighter Phillip Hallinger is helping to establish the Thai Center for Leadership Development, the first research and development institute of its kind in Southeast Asia. Prof. Hallinger, whose Fulbright association is with the National Chiang Mai University, directs Vanderbilt University's Leadership Center.

The government of Uruguay has nominated four Fulbright alumni as minister of education and culture. Dr. Mercader did postdoctoral research at the University of Wisconsin and received a Fulbright grant at the Universidad de Puerto Rico under auspices of the Fulbright program.

The Fulbright Association would like to thank the Andreas Foundation for its exceptional support in gratitude to Fulbrighter Ram Loevy, whose Fulbright grant to the Inter-American Foundation provided him the opportunity to work on "The Fulbright Difference: Contributions to International Understanding." The National Symphony Orchestra and Band.

National Symphony Orchestra and Band.

Fulbrighter Ram Loevy, whose Fulbright grant to the Inter-American Foundation provided him the opportunity to work on "The Fulbright Difference: Contributions to International Understanding." The National Symphony Orchestra and Band.
Volume Honors Ulrich Littmann

By Siegfried Karsten

Twenty-six essays in English and German comprise this festschrift about U.S.-German cultural and educational relationships published in recognition of the extraordinary devotion and accomplishments of Ulrich Littmann, executive director of the Commission for Educational Exchange between the United States of America and the Federal Republic of Germany.

Part one of the book takes as its theme, "Ulrich Littmann: A Life Dedicated to Cultural Exchange." Senator J. William Fulbright remarks on Dr. Littmann's persistent efforts to build important bridges and to his understanding of the vital role of international educational exchange in developing mutual understanding among people of different nations.

Various aspects of U.S.-German political relationships are addressed in historical perspective in the second part of the volume. For example, Karl Bracher discusses the nature of the interrelationships and potential conflict between the two countries, which may arise from insufficient understanding of each other's political systems. Gunther Moltmann discusses whether political and economic unions are the inevitable outcome of freedom and liberty, both for the U.S. and Germany.

The third section of the book concerns questions of culture and education. Henry Kellermann explores the nature of the identity crisis that peoples in all nations face. Ray Rist points to the mutual learning gained by the U.S. and Germany in the areas of vocational education and educational strategies oriented to minorities and inner-city populations. Adolf Jacobsen calls for textbook

In Appreciation of Senator Fulbright

By Siegfried Karsten

By Senator J. William Fulbright's receipt of the Presidential Medal of Freedom on May 5, 1993, and of the Fulbright Association's establishment of the J. William Fulbright Prize for International Understanding, the association is pleased to publish this collection of photographs and of quotations from Senator Fulbright's work.

Peace

Many people have assumed that because the House of Representa- tives, the Senate, and the President have declared for collective security, the job is done. But the fulfillment of the objective and the making of peace does not consist merely of a solemn declaration or a well-drafted constitution. The making of peace is a continuing process that must go on from day to day, from year to year, so long as our civilization shall last. Our participation in this process is not just the signing of a treaty with a big red seal. It is a daily task, a passive participation in all the details and decisions which can constitute a living and growing policy.

From a Senate address, March 28, 1945

Thank You to Appeal Donors!

The Fulbright Association gratefully acknowledges the following 1992 annual appeal donors whose awards were received between Feb. 16 and June 1.

Gary Ahrens
Richard T. Arndt
Jack L. Beal
J. Adamson Hoebel
Evelyn G. Jacovides
Green Kirkpatrick
William B. Krantz
John B. Malone, Jr.
Deborah McCullom
Sandie Jean McIntyre, II
Ronald Rau

International Educational & Cultural Exchange

International education exchange is the most significant current project designed to continue the process of understanding to the point, we would hope, that men

Fulbright House

Opened in London

Harriet Mayer Fulbright presented the J. William Fulbright medal to Ambassador Raymond G.H. Seitz at a ceremony inaugurating the new Fulbright House in London on May 12. In the presence of U.S. Ambassador Raymond G.H. Seitz and U.K. Secretary of State for Education John Patten, M.P., Mrs. Fulbright unveiled a plaque dedicating the house.

The Fulbright program in the United Kingdom began in 1948. More than 6,500 U.K. scholars have studied in the U.S. under auspices of the program, while more than 3,500 U.S. Fulbrighters have studied in the United Kingdom.

United States-United Kingdom Educational Commission, the binational U.K. which administers Fulbright programs under the Fulbright ban­ ning agreement.

The mission of the commission is to continue the annual exchange of scholars and professors between the two countries.

The shipment of arms to any nation not practiced in the art of preserving the peace.

From a Senate address, August 6, 1958

Professors have an influence that is hard to identify or to measure. But I think it's there, and eventually their students, or in some cases the professors themselves, are in posi-
I have thought of everything I can think of, and the one thing that gives me some hope is the ethos that underlies the educational-exchange program. That ethos, in sum, is the belief that international relations can be improved, and the danger of war significantly reduced, by producing generations of leaders, especially in the big countries, who through the experience of educational exchange, will have acquired some feeling and understanding of other people’s cultures—why they operate as they do, why they think as they do, why they react as they do—and of the differences among these cultures. It is possible—not very probable, but possible—that people can find in themselves, through intercultural education, the ways and means of living together in peace.

(From The Price of Empire)

Foreign Policy

It may be that the time has come to reappraise some of our basic assumptions. Throughout much of this century, many Americans assumed—wrongly—that the transgressions and affairs to world order committed by aggressive forces were none of our business. With the collapse of that assumption, a good many of us have swung in the other direction and to the opposite conclusion that we can—and should—impose our design for living upon the uncertain but aspiring societies of the world. This assumption is also illogical. However admirable our design may be, it cannot be imposed.

(From a Senate address, June 29, 1961)

Lyndon Johnson, Senator Fulbright, and John F. Kennedy.

nor omnipotent, and we cannot aspire to make the world over in our image.

Our proper objective is a continuing effort to limit the world struggle for power and to bring it under civilized rules. Such a program lacks the drama and romance of a global crusade. Its virtue is that it represents a realistic accommodation between our highest purposes and the limitations of human capacity. Its ultimate objective is indeed total victory, not alone for our arms in a nuclear war or for the goal of a world forcibly recast in our image, but rather for a process—a process of civilizing international relations and of bringing them gradually under a worldwide regime of law and order and peaceful procedures for the redress of legitimate grievances.

(From a Senate address, July 24, 1961)

If every [a universal victory for democratic values] comes within reach, it will come. I believe, not through acts of foreign policy, and certainly not of military policy, but rather through the magnification of freedom itself. The prospects for freedom depend ultimately on how it is practiced in free societies.

(From Prospects for the West)

We make policy apart from the image of what our world would be like after a war—or, as in the case of Vietnam or Nicaragua, apart from any awareness of the piles of decomposing bodies, the mutilated children, the cemeteries, and the broken lives that are always the tangible human results of any war.

(From The Price of Empire)

Ethics & Morality

Much of the evil of the world is beyond the reach of the law. The law cannot prevent gossip. It cannot restrain men from avarice and gluttony. It cannot restrain a man from betraying his friends. In short, it cannot prevent much of the evil to which men are, unfortunately, too prone. The law being inadequate, men long ago supplemented the law courts with courts of equity, where the spirit of the law, rather than its letter, is paramount. Underlying the law are the codes of ethics promul-
Fulbright
public life is that he keep within the legality. We are certainly in a tragic plight if the influential people, morality has been lost. But there can be new possibilities if we are not an authoritarian society, our capacity for decent behavior rests with us. It needs to be taught the restoration of an appreciation of virtue, of beauty, of intelligence and integrity in our national sense of values. (From the Penrose Lecture, J. W. Fulbright, The Price of Empire)

One of the most disturbing aspects of this problem of moral conduct is the revelation that, among so many enlightened individuals, morality has become the opposite of leadership; it is follower­ship, elevated to a science, for the maintenance of perspective which may help us to understand and to see that there can be new possibilities for men themselves. Our capacity for decent behavior seems to vary directly with our perception of others as individual humans with human motives and feelings, whereas our capacity for barbaric acts seems to increase with the perception of adversaries in abstract terms. (From The Price of Empire)

J. W. (Bill) Fulbright for Congress
Three Districts
Your Support Will Be Appreciated

Leadership

I return to the thought with which I began that the leadership of the President, of any President, is not enough in the democratic, pluralistic society in which we now live. The leadership of the President has little to do with leadership in an absolute sense. It is the opposite of leadership; it is follower­ship, elevated to a science, for the purpose of self­advancement. (From The Price of Empire)

Fulbright Teacher Exchange Grants

In 1994­95 the Fulbright Teacher Exchange program will involve U.S. teachers and college and university faculty members in direct, one­to­one exchanges with their counterparts in academic institutions in more than 50 countries. There are also exchange opportunities for educational admin­istrators. Those participating in academic­year exchanges trade class­rooms, often living in each other’s homes, while continuing to draw salaries from their home institutions. A few semester and shorter­term exchanges and one­way assignments may also be arranged. The program will also sponsor a summer seminar in Italy for university and college faculty and for teachers (grades 9 through 12) of Latin, Greek, and the classics.

The Fulbright Teacher Exchange program must be U.S. citizens, hold a bachelor’s degree, have three years of full­time teaching experience (for seminar participation), and be employed in a relevant subject area. For some non­English speaking countries fluency in the appropriate language is also required. Applications must be submitted by Oct. 15.

Preliminary plans call for 1994­95 exchanges with Argentina, Belarus, Belgium, Canada, Chile, Colombia, Cyprus, Czech Republic, Denmark, Egypt, Estonia, Finland, France, Germany, Hungary, Italy, Latvia, Liechtenstein, Lithuania, Mexico, Morocco, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, Portugal, Romania, Russia, Senegal, Slovak Republic, South Africa, Switzerland, Turkey, Ukraine, and the United Kingdom. Application packages are available from Fulbright Teacher Exchange, 600 Maryland Ave., S.W., Room 142, Washington, DC 20024, (800) 726­0579.

Fulbright Grants for U.S. Students

The 1994­95 competition for Fulbright grants for graduate study or research abroad, or for professional training in the creative and performing arts, opened May 1. Approximately 600 grants will be awarded to U.S. citizens for study and research in a wide variety of fields in more than 100 countries.

Graduating seniors are encouraged to apply. Such students need not have formulated specific educational or career goals. Awards are intended to broaden their horizons before they determine career paths. Applicants must be U.S. citizens at the time of application and hold a bachelor’s degree or its equivalent. Applications are invited from all fields in more than 100 countries. Applicants must be sufficiently proficient in the language of the host country to carry out their proposed study or research.

Fulbright grants provide round­trip international travel, maintenance for the tenure of the grant, a research allowance, and tuition waivers, if applicable. Travel­only grants provide round­trip transportation to the country where the student will pursue study or research. They are intended to supplement maintenance awards from another perspective and are not offered for international travel or the applicant’s own funds. All grants include basic health and accident insurance.

The brochure, Fulbright Grants and Other Grants for Graduate Study & Research Abroad, 1994­95, contains detailed application information. Students currently enrolled in a college or university should contact their campus Fulbright program adviser for the application brochure and information on application deadlines. Advisers set application deadlines for their campuses. At­large candidates should request the brochure before Oct. 15 from the U.S. Student Programs Division of the Institute of International Education. The application deadline for at­large candidates is Oct. 31. Contact the U.S. Student Programs Division, 1100 19th St. N.W., Washington, DC 20036.
Recent Fulbright Alumni Achievements

Books & Publications

An editorial by Felix D. Almaraz, Jr. (Argentina 1988) advocating closer ties between the United States and Argentina was published in the Jan. 31, 1987, issue of the New York Times. Almaraz is a professor of history at the University of Texas at San Antonio, Dr. Almaraz is a life member of the Fulbright Association.

Teachers College Press, New York, has recently published Whole Language Plus: Essays on Literacy in the United States and New Zealand by Courtney B. Carden (New Zealand 1987). The last book of the section stems from research on macro education completed by Dr. Carden during her Fulbright fellowship. She is professor of education at Harvard University and is a life member of the Fulbright Association.

On his Fulbright grant to Turkey and Egypt in 1991-92, Fulbright Association head Felix D. Almaraz (Egypt 1963, Morocco 1972, Australia 1977) completed work on an Arabic edition of Ibn Khaldun’s “The Province of Human Understanding.” This 12-volume work is the most recent study on the social sciences performed during his Fulbright grant.

An article by Mary Katherine Donaldson (Greece 1949, 1950) about her Fulbright experience in East Pakistan (now Bangladesh) appeared in the October 1992 issue of The Voice of Bangladesh.

The fourth edition of Curriculum Development In Vocational and Technical Education by Curtis R. Finch (Cyprus 1988) and John R. Crunkilton (Albania 1980) has been published by Allyn & Bacon. In use since 1979 in the U.S. and overseas, the book covers curriculum planning, content, and implementation. Dr. Finch is a life member of the Fulbright Association. Both he and Dr. Crunkilton are professors at Virginia Polytechnic Institute and State University, Blacksburg, Va.

The Plague: Fiction and Resistance by Steven G. Kullman (USCSS 1979) was published in April by Twynme Publishers. New York. Kullman’s work is a study of Albert Camus’s novel The Plague. Dr. Kullman is professor of comparative literature at the University of Texas at San Antonio.

Fulbright Association life member Suk H. Kim (Korea 1992) is senior associate professor of history at the University of Pennsylvania. Her work has been awarded a Fulbright regional research fellowship from the U.S. Department of State. Finn is a member of the Fulbright Association.

In Many a Strife: General Gerald C. Thomas and the U.S. Marine Corps by Retired Col. Robert N. Millen (Korea 1991) has been published by the Naval Institute Press, Annapolis, Md. Dr. Millen is Raymond Shaw, Jr. professor of military history at The Ohio State University.

In a fourth edition of This is PR (Washworth Publishing, Belmont, Calif.) by Doug Newsom (India 1988), with Alan Scott and Judy Vanslyke Turk, includes a case study by Mary Ali Baig of New Delhi, India. Dr. Newsom received the case study from Mr. Baig, a public relations consultant in India, while there on his Fulbright leadership fellowship. A life member of the Fulbright Association, Dr. Newsom teaches journalism at Texas Christian University.

Victor Regnier (The Netherlands, Sweden, Switzerland, 1987, 1988) wrote “Theولوجical Implications of a Heroic Life” in the Jour­nal of Humanities and Peace, 1992. Dr. Regnier is a professor of international finance at the University of New York, has served since 1995 as the editor of the Aevi­li Series, now numbering more than 140 volumes on topics in world history.

The second, revised edition of A People Misruled: The Chinese Stepping­Stone Syndrome by Albert H. Yee (Japan, People’s Republic of China 1972) has been published by Heinemann Asia, Singapore. The book draws on cross-cultural, social, and psychological trends, and on Dr. Yee’s studies in Hong Kong and Singapore. Dr. Yee, a life member of the Fulbright Association, is professor of educational psychology at Florida International University in Miami.

Exhibits & Performances

The Chicago Cultural Center exhibited the work of Barbara Auvin (Haiti 1995) from May 2 to June 14 in the show, “An Artist’s Markings of Heart, Hand, Mind, and Soul.” She is a life member of the Fulbright Association.

The piano composition, Der Ursprung, by Timothy Kramer (Germany 1988) received its U.S. premiere last November in San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Kramer’s choral work, “A Stable Lamp Is Lighted,” was performed for the first time in December by the combined choirs of Trinity University, San Antonio, where Mr. Kramer is assistant professor of music. A National Endowment for the Arts grant will support Mr. Kramer’s composition of an organ concerto for premier in Trinity’s 1995-96 concert season.

H. Leenard Lefteris (Thailand 1981, 1989, Laos 1990) served as associate curator of the exhibition, “Textiles and the Tai Experience in Southeast Asia,” the first international traveling exhibition of Thai textiles from mainland Southeast Asia. The exhibition was installed at The Royal Ontario Museum in Canada. Mr. Lefteris created the exhibition, sponsored by The New England Sculptors Association, Mr. Freed wrote a variety of talks to pupils. Mr. Freed served as president of the sculptors’ association. He is vice president for membership and chapter development at the Fulbright Association and is a life member.

LeSLie FriedMAN (India 1983) spent two months in Poland this spring choreographing, teaching, and performing at the Silsian National Dance Theater in Bytom, at the National Opera and Grand Opera House in Gladows, and at the Grand Opera Company and the Palace of Culture in Wroclaw. Her spring tour follows an assignment last November in Warsaw where she taught modern dance to teachers and upper-level students of the National Ballet Academy.

The piano composition, Der Ursprung, by Timothy Kramer (Germany 1988) received its U.S. premiere last November in San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Kramer’s choral work, “A Stable Lamp Is Lighted,” was performed for the first time in December by the combined choirs of Trinity University, San Antonio, where Mr. Kramer is assistant professor of music. A National Endowment for the Arts grant will support Mr. Kramer’s composition of an organ concerto for premier in Trinity’s 1995-96 concert season.

The piano composition, Der Ursprung, by Timothy Kramer (Germany 1988) received its U.S. premiere last November in San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Kramer’s choral work, “A Stable Lamp Is Lighted,” was performed for the first time in December by the combined choirs of Trinity University, San Antonio, where Mr. Kramer is assistant professor of music. A National Endowment for the Arts grant will support Mr. Kramer’s composition of an organ concerto for premier in Trinity’s 1995-96 concert season.

The piano composition, Der Ursprung, by Timothy Kramer (Germany 1988) received its U.S. premiere last November in San Antonio, Texas. Mr. Kramer’s choral work, “A Stable Lamp Is Lighted,” was performed for the first time in December by the combined choirs of Trinity University, San Antonio, where Mr. Kramer is assistant professor of music. A National Endowment for the Arts grant will support Mr. Kramer’s composition of an organ concerto for premier in Trinity’s 1995-96 concert season.
Elisabeth F. Defes (Italy 1963; Iran, India 1976) received a United States Information Agency Certificate of Appreciation for assisting the government of Armenia in drafting the country's constitution. A life member of the Fulbright Association, Prof. Defes teaches at the School of Law of Seton Hall University, Newark, N.J. She also directs a U.S. Department of Education-sponsored project developed to produce a 10-part television course on public international law.

Fullbright Association life member J. Karel Lambert (Austria 1973, 1975, and 1979) recently joined the Fulbright Association. Along with his wife, he has served as a special advisor at international conferences last December in Salzburg held in recognition of his contributions to free logic, a branch of logic which he helped to found, and to free definite teaching German in the PenNSY School District.

As president of the Western Literature Association, Diane Quantic (Bulgaria 1986) will plan the program and local arrangements for the association's annual meeting Oct. 7 through 9 in Wichita, Kan. About 200 Western literature scholars are expected to attend.

The Classical Association of the Atlantic States presented its 1992 Award of Merit to John E. Rexine (Greece 1951, 1979) in recognition of his distinguished service in scholarship, teaching, and promotion of the classics over a number of years. Dr. Rexine retired in 1992 and serves as Charles A. Dana professor emeritus at Colgate University. Last year Dr. Rexine and Constantine P. Cavarnos (Greece 1957) received the first Florentovske Theological Prize awarded by the Center for Traditionalist Orthodox Studies, Ena, Calif.

Job Changes

Fullbright Association director and life member Philip O. Geier has been named president of the Armand Hammer United World College of the American West in Montezuma, N.M. He will assume his new duties on July 1. Dr. Geier is vice president of external affairs at World Learning Inc., formerly the School of Law of Seton Hall University, Newark, N.J. He will join the WILM staff as a reporter/anchor in 1990. Ms. Hautanen joined the WILM staff as a reporter/anchor in 1990.

Lectures & Workshops

Dorothy Goodman (United Kingdom 1951, 1979) chaired the Institute for Critical Languages and founder of the Washington International School, co-chaired a session of the 1993 Georgetown Round Table on Languages and Linguistics at the 14th Annual Meeting of the Greater Washington Academic Alliance for Languages.

Fullbright Association life member Charlie S. Lewis (Taiwan 1989, 1990) lectured at Colgate University and the University of Toronto on her Fulbright experiences. She is completing a study commissioned by the Pacific Rim Institute on Korea and Israel from a mass media perspective.

Fullbright Association life member Thomas L. Russell (India 1986) presented, "Development and Potential of the Video Class System: Innovation in Reverse" at the University of the South Pacific, Suva, Fiji. He also presented "A Developing World Television System for Distance Education" at the 1992 International Council for Distance Education Conference in Bangkok. Dr. Russell directs the Office of Instructional Telecommunications at North Carolina State University in Raleigh. He is a life member of the Fulbright Association.

DO YOU KNOW ALUMNI AND FRIENDS WHO WOULD LIKE TO BE MEMBERS?

MEMBERSHIP ENROLLMENT FORM

Yes, I would like to enroll in the Fulbright Association and support its work. Please select the appropriate membership category and make the appropriate dues payment.

$ Individual Annual Membership, $30
$ Individual Life Membership, $300
$ Student Membership, $20 - open to those who return from their Fulbright grants and receive their studies full-time
$ Retired Membership, $20
$ Couple Membership, $45
$ Associate Membership, $30 - open to those who do not have a Fulbright grant, but would like to support the work of the association and receive all benefits except for the vote.

*For a limited time life membership will be available for $300. Act now to enroll before life membership dues increase to $500.

FULBRIGHT ASSOCIATION MERCHANDISE

$ A water-resistant canvas tote bag (13" x 15" x 3") with the Fulbright Association’s 15th annual meeting logo. ($10.00 members, $12.50 nonmembers, prices include shipping and handling)

$ Commemorative 10th anniversary poster created by noted artist and Fulbrighter Milton Glaser for the Fulbright Association. ($10.00 members, $12.50 nonmembers, prices include shipping and handling)

$ The Price of Empire, by J.W. Fulbright (Pantheon, 1989). Senator Fulbright’s most recent book is “the culmination of a lifelong attempt to create a more compassionate and sensitive America, to warn us of the arrogance of power and the follies of empire, and to remind Americans of what is truly valuable in our national experience.” ($17.40 members, $20.85 nonmembers, prices include shipping and handling)

$ Fulbright Certificate—8 1/2" x 11" hand-lettered certificate with the Fulbrighter’s name and Fulbright country. Signed by the chairman of the J. William Fulbright Foreign Scholarship Board. ($20.00 members only, price includes shipping and handling. Please allow four to six weeks for delivery.)

Please provide the following information for your Fulbright Certificate:

Fullbright country
Fullbright year
Name should appear as

Total amount enclosed
Fulbrighter Seeks Medical Aid for Russia

A desperate shortage of medical supplies and hospital equipment in St. Petersburg prompted Russian Fulbrighter Anatoly Fedoseyev to turn to Fulbrighters in Chicago for help. Chicago serves as headquarters for a variety of major medical supply houses.

Prof. Fedoseyev, who held Fulbright grants at the University of Chicago and at Texas A&M University, has asked for assistance in securing donation and shipment of medical supplies and hospital equipment to institutions in St. Petersburg. Bruce Douglas (Japan 1999) is coordinating the assistance effort. Also helping are Aphrodite "Dee" Sarelas (Greece 1959) and Steven Douglas of Bethesda, Md., who makes business trips to Russia several times a year. For information contact Dr. Bruce Douglas, (708) 405-0511, or Ms. Dee Sarelas, (312) 787-1688.

Fulbright Association

1307 New Hampshire Avenue, NW
Washington, DC 20036
(202) 331-1590

ADDRESS CORRECTION REQUESTED

Harriman

(continued from page 2)

earned history's high accolade. He helped to give us one other thing besides. Because it was in his Senate office that a young Georgetown student first worked in government — and, even more, saw how strong leadership, effectiveness, and great ideals could be combined. In a very real sense, we have our President Clinton today because we had our Senator Fulbright then. How satisfying to Bill Fulbright it must be to see young Bill Clinton leading our country and the world.

The Fulbrighters Newsletter is published four times a year. Material for publication on the subjects of international exchange, international education, and alumni activities; as well as news and reports of host countries and institutions should be sent to the Editor.

Jane L. Anderson
Fulbright Association
1307 New Hampshire Ave., NW
Washington, DC 20036
Copyright © 1993
Fulbright Association