Organizing A Local Chapter: Why and How

When he was President of the Association, David C. Larsen wrote the following article for those who were thinking of starting a local chapter.

The idea of a local chapter of the Fulbright Association usually arises during a conversation between a few former Fulbrighters and, possibly, others interested in international exchange. Frequently the idea comes from a real desire to keep up with developments in the field, to form a network of those who have had Fulbright scholarships, to be of service to those presently holding Fulbright scholarships, to organize worthwhile activities relevant to the Fulbright experience, and to continue, in a meaningful way, personal involvement with this important exchange program.

To get a local chapter started one should write to the national headquarters for a list of Fulbrighters in your region and ask for reimbursement of the postage cost of your initial correspondence.

News From Washington

Last fall Richard T. Arruda, Vice President for Governmental Affairs, invited Dr. Marjorie Bell Chambers as a representative for then Presidential candidate George Bush to talk to FAA members at the 11th annual meeting in Albuquerque, New Mexico, about her candidate's views on international exchange. Dr. Chambers' excellent speech, "George Bush's Activist Agenda for Peace", is now of special interest as a result of the election and is therefore excerpted below.

Copies of the complete statement can be obtained free of charge by writing the national headquarters.

Vice-President George Bush with his vast background in foreign affairs and national security knows the intrinsic value of cultural exchange to the advancement of American foreign policy goals of peace and prosperity abroad. I can assure you that he wholeheartedly supports cultural exchange in general and the Fulbright program in particular.

The impact of the Fulbright program on university curricula in area studies and foreign language courses has been tremendous, and crucial in our ever increasingly interdependent world. Senator Fulbright once described the purpose of the program as this: "to acquaint Americans with the world as it is—not as we wish it were or as continued on p. 9 col. 1
LOCAL CHAPTERS

CALIFORNIA

Because southern California is so broad, it has been divided into five major regions for the Southern California Chapter. Each year one region elects all the officers for the chapter and another region chooses a coordinator. This task is rotated among the regions. Dana W. Murphy, of San Diego State University has been elected Coordinator this year. Dr. Murphy is Associate Dean for Administrative Operations at San Diego State University's Imperial Valley Campus in Calexico, California. He is also Associate Director of the campus' Institute for Border Studies. Dr. Murphy was a Fulbrighter in Costa Rica in 1969-70 conducting research for his doctoral dissertation in the political science of political parties in Latin America. His research was also published in a book published by Wesleyan University Press in 1972. In 1987-88 he served as the Fulbright Program's U.S. representative to South Korea.

MACHUSETTS

The Boston Fulbright Association Chapter hosted several activities during 1988. A group of Finnish Fulbright alumni visiting the United States were welcomed by the chapter. Their tour observed the 350th anniversary of the first Finns to arrive in America and the 35th anniversary of the first Finnish-American academic exchanges sponsored under the Fulbright program. The chapter also participated in the Boston Center for International Visitors welcome reception for foreign Fulbrighters. Chapter President Katherine Tagge (Romania, 1979-80) gave a lecture on the history of the Fulbright program. She attended many events such as an International Career Congress board meeting and an evaluation of the unique and splendid presentations provided for foreign Fulbrighters by the Center for American Studies at Concord.

MINNESOTA

The Minnesota Fulbright Alumni Association held an open house in December so that members could compare impressions and get acquainted socially. Plans for the annual membership meeting for the spring are underway.

NEW JERSEY

After a two-year effort New Jersey now has a full-fledged Fulbright alumni chapter. The founding of the chapter and the first official business of the chapter was held on March 20. Several American Fulbright alumni, including the first official president, John W. Murphy, were present. They signed the articles for the chapter and adopted a provisional set of bylaws as well as a preliminary organizational structure. Letters will be sent in February and March to seek out potential members in the state.

IOWA

Twice a year, in fall and spring, the Fulbright Alumni Association hosts the Local Chapter of Central Iowa gatherings for a business meeting and a speaker on a related topic. Last fall the chapter met on October 30th for a slide presentation by Martin and Mary Carolyn Lindberg on "Korean Exchange from Both Sides". The couple discussed their Fulbright experience in South Korea, in 1987-88. The spring meeting plans a video on the Fulbright Experience. The Iowa chapter is open to all Fulbright alumni on the Iowa State University campus, and the University has sponsored 74 Fulbright scholars. The chapter also serves to gather all faculty with a shared interest in various aspects of international affairs. A directory of Fulbright alumni is published each spring, and can be obtained from Dr. Barbara Mattis, Department of English, 339 Ross Hall, University of Iowa.

Letter From 1988 Chairman of Chapter Development

Last year Chapter Development Chair Aphrodite Sorensen, known to all her many friends as "De", wrote the following letter to encourage the formation of new chapters and greater activity in those already in existence. It is filled with so many good ideas that it deserves to be reprinted here:

As a fellow Fulbrighter I am glad to extend to the Fulbright Alumni Association the invitation to welcome you to the Fulbright Association Chapter Development Program. The chapter development, as you know, is about 75 Fulbrighters and is increasing rapidly. The officers are John Durnin, President; Miriam April, Moderator; Elaine Shairer, secretary/treasurer; and Margaret Maxwell, Thiele, Trustees.

During the past two years the chapter has conducted several events. These include a welcoming reception for foreign Fulbrighters from a number of different countries, the annual meeting of the International Visitors Center, and a reception at Maryellen Doyle's house. The chapter has been successful in creating a number of Fulbright organizations throughout the country.

Virginia

Kenneth Lawless and Richard T. Arndt initiated the move to form a Fulbright Association chapter in the Charlottesville area at a small steering committee last fall. The founding meeting of the chapter was held on February 13th. Professor Peter Hackett, newly named Dean of International Studies at the University of Virginia, attended the meeting and delivered a congratulatory message from the University's President Robert O'Neill. Professor Hackett stated that the University of Virginia is the only institution in the country with two former Presidents - Edgar Shannon and Frank Hertford - who were Fulbright alumni. The Chapter was approximately 150 on Virginia campuses and in the nearby area.

tial mailing. Once you have gathered a nucleus of Fulbrighters interested in establishing a chapter, it is a good idea to send out a questionnaire to prospective members to determine the extent of potential membership, possible meeting times, types of programs and activities most appealing. Information on suggested bylaws and program ideas can be found in the newsletter but can also be obtained separately by writing the national office. The final step is the signing of the agreement by the elected chapter officials to abide by the regulations of the national association. Please note: each chapter is entitled to a $5 rebate for each chapter member who is a member of the Association.

The key to success is getting people involved in activities that they perceive as rewarding and useful. While these vary with regions and time periods, there is listed elsewhere in this newsletter a large number of ideas which ought to get any group off to a good start.

Foreign Fulbrighters should be welcomed at all meetings. It is of great value to work cooperatively not only with other international associations and groups, but also with foreign consulates, universities, and local, state, and federal government officials.

In general the chapter will thrive with an organized energetic group of three to four people who arrange events in convenient, perhaps historic settings, with refreshment and good programs. Meetings are best on Saturdays. We find it important to have someone on your executive committee affiliated with an institution involved with the Fulbright Program. This gives access to support services which, for us, have been invaluable.

This is obviously not a complete list of what is possible. You will be able to create your own program, but all we have in common the interest in cultural exchange and improved international understanding. I wish you good luck in your organization and welcome any suggestions on how we may be of help.

Sincerely,

Aphrodite Sarelas

At the 1988 Fulbright Alumni Association Meeting in Albuquerque, a panel (Session 4b) was held which addressed psychological processes that can be involved when Fulbrighters return to the United States and attempt re-orientation to one's own culture after extended periods of residence in other cultures.

To implement that recommendation, Professor Diana Drake (Associate Professor of Developmental Psychology and Fulbright Researcher to Mexico 1980-81) will compile a bibliography of articles, monographs, books, and other references that might be of use to Fulbrighters when they return to the United States. Prof. Drake would like to include references that other Fulbrighters have found helpful for their own thinking about, understanding of, and efforts at coping with re-entry phenomena. If there is any article, book, or other reading material that you have found helpful, or think other Fulbrighters might find helpful, in describing, understanding, or giving meaning to problems of trying to re-enter life in one's own country and culture after living abroad, please send the reference(s)—preferably with a brief description of itself(s)—content to Dr. Drake for inclusion in the bibliography. Please indicate whether or not you would like to have your name listed as one of the contributors to the bibliography. A copy of the reading material itself would be most welcome. U.S.-Japan Leadership Program

The U.S.-Japan Leadership Program seeks American mid-career professionals and professionals in the international leadership fields of government, business, labor, education, and journalism. Although no Japanese background is required, the eight individuals selected as Fellows each year will have a chance to learn about Japan through visits, tours, guided self-education, a two- to twelve-month residency in Japan, and continued involvement in U.S.-Japan relations. The Program aims at building a network of future leaders who have a solid understanding of Japan in addition to their own areas of expertise.

The deadline for candidate nominations is March 31, 1989, and candidates must be U.S. citizens. Application and Program information may be obtained by writing the Japan Society, 333 East 47th Street, New York, NY 10017. Attn: Public Affairs, or calling (212) 920-2155.

Change of Name?

Last fall at the annual business meeting several members recommended that "the commonly accepted title of the Association—Fulbright Alumni Association—be shortened to Fulbright Association to better reflect the mission of the organization. As it stands, the name gives the impression that the meeting is social. This name leads the public about the purpose of the organization and makes it difficult to justify attendance or talking to university administrators."

Subsequent inquiries among members produced a positive reaction to the shortened name. The Board of Directors therefore passed a resolution at its last meeting that the Board recommend to the membership that the name by which the Association does business be changed from "Fulbright Alumni Association" to "Fulbright Association".

New Board Member

A new Board member was named to fill the vacancy created under Article III section 5 of the new bylaws. The award is for four months research and is paid for by five German universities and museums during 1989. Universities in Hannover, Schwerin, Munich, Hamburg, and Erlangen-Neurnburg, Freiburg and Stuttgart are among those on the planned itinerary. Dr. Ballendorf has also received invitations to present lectures on Micronesia in the Soviet Union, Austria, Holland and England.
