

Meet, Eat, and Engage: Indonesia

The North Carolina Chapter of the Fulbright Association (FBA) is excited to be sponsoring the first in a series of events entitled, “Meet, Eat, and Engage: Sharing Cultural Diversity in our own Communities.” The goal of this series of events is to learn about a different culture from current Fulbright Scholars and get to sample food from the scholars’ home country.

Did you know that Indonesia is the largest archipelago (~18.000 islands) in the world?

Indonesia is home to the Komodo dragon, the most expensive coffee beans in the world (Kopi Luwak, AKA “Cat poop coffee”), 700 native languages, and nine world heritage sites.

Featured Fulbright scholars:
